Program: Pattye Whisman introduced Deepa Subramanian. Born and raised in Canada, Deepa has lived in Columbus, Ohio for 7 years now, and is in her 2nd year as a medical student at The Ohio State University.

Deepa has already led a full-life, starting off as an aid worker for tragedies such as hurricanes. She was also a teacher in Canada, but by the fourth year she "began to feel like Arnold Schwarzenegger in Kindergarten Cop," feeling completely overwhelmed and full of chaos. She left teaching to pursue her Masters Degree and followed her native roots back to India, where her life would be forever changed by the practice of Micro-Credit.

Micro-Credit was where the women of Indian villages were given loans even though they had no collateral to back it up. Most often, these women would re-invest the monetary credit to help educate children and, in turn, help the overall village succeed. This practice would later win a Nobel Peace Prize. Witnessing this practice first hand, inspired Deepa to work with the largest labor union in the world, in conjunction with the largest business school in India, to help these women grow their businesses.

Eventually Deepa was drawn back to Canada and worked with a Mennonite program.

She closed by showing a picture of her grandmother, who lived her whole life in India, where Deepa would visit her every few years. Her grandmother only completed three grades of education, yet managed to teach herself 4 different languages and manage a tight budget to successfully raise 7 children. She keeps her grandmother's spirit with her and wonders what kind of missed potential was in her own grandmother to do much bigger things. This inspires Deepa to try to reach as many people as possible, especially women, and help inspire them to reach their full potential.

Thought of the Week: "Our greatest weakness lies in giving up. The most certain way to succeed is always to try just one more time." – Thomas A. Edison
