Red badge exchange: Lauri White

Sergeant-at-Arms: Omitted due to time constraints.

Program: Jerry Besanceney introduced Sarah Wallace stating the NEWORK Coworking Space priorities are to help small businesses, provide a space that will help our community, and keep young people in our community by providing them with multigenerational mentors.

Sarah Wallace spoke about her NEWORK renovating partners, Teri and Fred Lowinger from Chicago, and how Teri is Herman L. Art's granddaughter. Teri wanted to have roots and boots on the ground in Newark, and in 2015, Sarah Wallace and Teri Lowinger closed on the 14-20 North Park Place building. For a year, they worked with engineers to get historic tax credits to help with the expenses associated to fixing the structural issues and renovations for the old building.

The plans for the building include three one-bedroom loft apartments, 6,000 square-foot co-working space, H.L. Art and HER – Kelly Parker. Sarah Wallace stated that Kelly Parker with HER has already moved into a renovated part of the project right above H.L. Art Jewelers.

NEWORK will provide private offices, floating seats, dedicated desks, open kitchen with free coffee, conference rooms and event/training meeting space for existing businesses. Co-working spaces are attractive to work at home professionals, independent contractors and people who travel frequently. It is a social gathering of people who share values and may find synergies with one another that influence the growth of their individual businesses.

Sarah Wallace introduced Bryn Bird to speak about co-working spaces, because that is primarily where Bryn has worked throughout the years. She focused on how the NEWORK co-working space will improve the Downtown Newark economy, because money will be spent in the Downtown area by individuals who occupy NEWORK. She stated the downstairs meeting space can hold 100 people along with a conference room that can hold 24 people. There will be 24/7 access for people who have a key code on their phone. An interesting fact stated by Bryn was that people were 7% more productive working in a co-working space versus being in the office.
